About 20 uniformed players will conduct the fund drive.

The team has scheduled games in five Ontario communities for the week of the February school vacation and will travel by charter bus on what is being dubbed the "first annual trip".

The local association arranged the tour through city and Chamber of Commerce officials in the towns where games are scheduled. The overtures were made by Richard Neal on behalf of the association.

A Canadian team from St. John, New Brunswick will clash with the Andover midgets here on Saturday, Jan. 21 and Sunday, Jan. 22. The Saturday game will be held at 9:30 a.m. at the Phillips Academy rink and the Sunday match, at 7 a.m. The games are open to the public free of charge.

Boards Budget Raises For Bowen, Erickson

Salary increases were voted this week for both the town's key administrators, with one dissenting vote cast in each instance.

Following an executive session Monday, the Selectmen approved a $1250 pay hike for Manager Richard J. Bowen, setting his salary at $15,250. Selectman Sidney P. White opposed the increase while Selectmen Phillip K. Allen, Roger Collins and Robert A. Watters cast affirmative votes. There was no vote from Chairman William A. Stewart.

A night later the School Committee agreed to an $1800 annual increase for Supt. Edward L. Erickson, bringing his salary to $19,600. Dissenting was Robert Sherman. Both salaries are subject to consideration by Town Meeting in March.

Prior to the School Committee vote, Committeeman Sherman read a statement in opposition to any 1967 pay increase for the position of superintendent.

Sherman said that the salary at $17,800 is at such a level that "we must think about whether the townspeople are willing to go even higher", and he suggested that the committee was probably approaching a maximum salary for the superintendent's position.

He stated that the trend in salary administration is to "level off" as individuals grow older and added, "Our superintendent is well into the age where this leveling off of salary should be taking place."

Sherman referred to the salary increase of a year ago when Supt. Erickson received a $1600 annual increase after only $1300 was budgeted for that purpose. He objected to the three-member vote which authorized this change (while he was out of town on business). "I consider this an unethical approach, since it violates the information given to Town Meeting

Committee Signs 1st School Contract

The School Committee has signed the first professional staff contract to be negotiated for the Andover school department under terms of the new State law which permits municipal employees to bargain collectively.

Negotiating teams for both the policy board and the Andover Education Assn. met following the regular School Committee session Tuesday to resolve a legal complication and finish off other details standing in the way of formal acceptance of the contract.

The wording of a section establishing grievance procedures for individual teachers was altered to overcome an objection cited at the last committee meeting by Town

Counsel Frederic S. O'Brien.

Andover's counsel takes the legal position that the School Committee would be delegating a portion of its designated powers if the teacher-town agreement stipulated that the State Board of Arbitration and Conciliation could make decisions in grievance disputes that would be "final and binding" upon the School Committee.

Here Tuesday to dispute this view was Boston Atty. Francis J. Ullman, called in to represent the Andover Education Assn. Reviewing the history of the labor movement in the U. S., Atty. Ullman said that labor laws on arbitration have been traditionally interpreted as providing for a "final resolution" of cases argued before an arbitration board. He also said it seemed unnecessary to him to be concerned about the ultimate legal ramifications of the phrase questioned by O'Brien because it is highly unlikely the committee would ever be confronted with an arbitration proceeding in its dealing with members of the professional educators organization.

Ullman objected in principle to an arbitration procedure that would give one of the parties directly involved in a grievance dispute, the School Committee in this instance, the authority to make the final determination in a case.

The negotiators compromised, eliminating the "legal and binding" clause altogether. Their agreement side stepped the issue, presumably permitting the School Committee to regard any opinion from the State Board of Arbitration and Conciliation as advisory rather than conclusive. Such ques-

Burton S. Flagg Honored

The business community paid tribute to Burton S. Flagg, a retired partner of the insurance firm Smart & Flagg and former president of Andover Savings Bank, at a testimonial luncheon honoring him last week upon his retirement as a trustee and member of the board of investment for the savings bank.

Mr. Flagg has been associated with the Andover bank since 1903 when he was elected a corporator.

He was elected a trustee and clerk of the board for the same banking institution in 1911.

The bank's senior corporator was elected to the board of investment in 1916 and has continued as a member since that time. He was the ninth president of the Andover bank and served 41 and one-half years in that post before his retirement in 1958.

Library Rule
Is Modified

Eighth grade students in Andover schools will be permitted to apply for adult cards at Memorial Hall Library after Feb. 1.

Librarian Miriam Putnam has notified the School Committee of this plan, following a request from the school board for a review of library policy which prevents junior high school students from using adult facilities unless accompanied by an adult.

Supt. Edward I. Erickson told the schoolmen Tuesday that the cards would be issued to eighth graders on a trial basis, and the plan was in no way a result of committee interest in seeing if high students permitted free use of library facilities. He said Mr. Putnam has scheduled such a trial to begin after the expansion of reading room facilities, recently completed.

He pointed out that junior high students have always been permitted to receive books from adult shelves, or a pass to the upstairs facilities, where children's room materials are not satisfied their requirements.

the school department was submitted for approval," he said. The committee added that there have been years when the superintendent did not receive a raise, there has been an increase toward leveling his salary. The 1966 raise amounted to 7%, was the largest given over the period from 1957-66, and it surpassed the increase in the cost of living.

In his statement Sherman said the committee that the salary of the superintendent should be determined by his performance, the execution of his responsibilities, and that members should not be from the job simply because of "lack of courage or the ability to do it."

making the only counter statement, Chairman Louis Galbiati said he had used three criteria in determining that Supt. Erickson should receive the raise advocated.

Reporting that he has frequently sought the superintendent's "educational advice," Galbiati said he has found nothing lacking in responses given. He also said that a credit to Erickson for Andover has performed well in dealing with the State over budgeting matters etc., and been prominent in meeting State requirements.

Chairman Galbiati added that he could not think of a single school department crisis during the year which involved the function of the superintendent. "In terms of development of staff and program, we probably have one of the best school departments in the state and is probably due to the superintendent and his (staff) selection techniques," the chairman said.

Also to be budgeted by the school department are pay increases for Asst. Supt. of Schools Vaughn C. and the school department general services supervisor, J. Berberian. The assistant's salary was voted at $13,600, up from $12,100 and Berberian's pay established as $12,400, up from $10,880.

The School Committee met in executive session to evaluate three top administrators, excluding them from the discussion. When the door was opened, roughly an hour later, Chairman Galbiati called for a motion to establish the pays as finally voted. He noted that Supt. Erickson had been called into the closed-door session to participate in the discussion of Clapp's and Berberian's performance, and that he had given men strong recommendations.

Adventure Film Series Strictly For Children

The Children's Adventure Series, a program of four British films specifically produced for a six to twelve year old audience, will begin this Saturday, Jan. 14, at Andrews Auditorium, Pike School. Offered by the town's elementary school Parent Teacher Association and by local business and civic organizations, the films are available to all youngsters of the Greater Lawrence community. Show time runs from 2 p.m. until 3:45 p.m.

"The Last Rhino" the opening feature color film, tells of a boy, David, who lives with his uncle, the warden of an East African game preserve. The last existing rhino there is a friendly animal until the time she is wounded by hunters. She then becomes dangerous to the community and the warden feels he must kill her. With skill and imagination, David, at great risk to himself, manages to quiet the beast and save her life.

Like all the films in this series, excitement and fun are not achieved at the cost of children's intelligence and sensitivity. Nor are these all-purpose "family films", but specifically films for young children. Short subjects, including international prize winners and a continuing serial will run throughout the four showings on alternate Saturdays.

Adults may attend - but only if accompanied by children.

Further information may be obtained by calling Pike School. Tickets may be purchased for the complete series of four films or for a single film.

Allied Changes Division Name

Allied Chemical Corp.'s Barrett division has been renamed Fabricated products division, it is announced by James B. Prendergast, president of the division. Allied operates a regional sales office and warehouse out of Andover.

The new divisional designation went into effect Jan. 1.

According to Prendergast:

"The change reflects the increased scope of the division's activities. In addition to its traditional line of building and paving materials, the division is now producing and marketing a variety of finished plastic products such as melamine dinnerware and film."

A recently-created department within the division, headed by an executive vice president, is responsible for finished plastic products. The department's product line also includes plastic pipe and fittings.

Prendergast reports that the name Barrett will continue to appear on the labels of the division's building materials and most of its paving materials. Other previously used trade names will also be retained.

AHS Student Is Selected

David Rozen, 24 Lincoln Cir., who attends Andover High School, is among nearly 400 superior New England high school students selected by their science departments to attend a Science Frontiers lecture at Boston's Museum of Science on Friday, Jan. 13. Communities throughout New England will be represented.

Science Frontiers was initiated by the Museum a year ago to give outstanding high school students the opportunity to hear world-renowned scientists speak on their chosen field.

Dr. Norman F. Ramsey, professor of physics at Harvard University, will give the lecture. Dr. Ramsey has recently been elected president of the Universities Research Assn., a new organization established by 46 research universities throughout the country. The association has been founded to construct and operate a proposed new 200-million electron volt accelerator.

In his lecture, "The Frontier of High Energy," Dr. Ramsey will discuss the elementary particles that exist in nature and that can be produced by high-energy accelerators.

The fourth Science Frontiers lecture of the 1966-67 series will take place on Feb. 10.

Three Topics Are Scheduled

The Andover school department will hold another of its elementary school curriculum days today, Jan. 12.

Teachers will meet as follows: Those who instruct fifth and sixth graders will discuss the selection of pupils who should be in the elementary school French program, at Central School; Teachers for grades one, two, three and four will work on the problems involved in individualized reading program at South School; and kindergarten teachers will examine samples of materials designed to provide perceptual training.

Elementary schools will be dismissed prior to lunch so that these teacher programs may be held during the afternoon.

The Andover chapter of American Field Service will present the foreign film, "The Reluctant Saint," at Andover High School Auditorium this Saturday at 8 p.m. Also scheduled, the showing of a short entitled, "A Skier's Dream Come True."

During intermission Miss Lissa Vogt, a senior at the high school, will discuss her summer experiences in Germany where she visited as an AFS student.

Tickets will be available at the door.

Money raised at the performance will go to support the local chapter's students exchange program. It costs an AFS chapter $750 to send a student abroad or bring one to the U. S. There are additional expenses involved with bringing foreign students to this country, depending upon how far their home is from the states, AFS officials explain. These costs are absorbed by the student's family or interested persons in their homeland.

American Field Service is an outgrowth of the ambulance corps operated by volunteers during World Wars I and II. At war's end, the men and women involved wished to do something concrete to further world peace and understanding and from this desire has come the world student scholarship program. A total of 38,000 young men and women from 70 nations have thus far participated.

Six foreign students have been at Andover High School in the past four years. Enrolled this term are Miss Pauline Hwarth from England and Miss Medkham Thammabong of Laos.

Students who previously lived in Andover are now located as follows: Gunar Solbra, Andover's first AFS student is in his second year at law school at the Oslo University. His address is Sognsvannsveien 4, Oslo 3, Norway.

While in the States, Gunar lived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Lake and this past summer their daughter Pam visited the Solbra family in Norway.

TB Testing Is Arranged

A tuberculin testing program will be conducted for Andover Public School students in grades 1 and 11 the week of Feb. 6.

Because the consent of parents is necessary for a pupil to participate in the program, consent slips will be distributed Thursday and Friday, Jan. 12 and 13. They must be returned to school by Friday, Jan. 27.

The Tine test will be used in the program and makes use of a plastic handle attached to a small metal disc on which are 4 small points or tines. The tines are coated with tuberculin protein testing material. The disc is applied to the forearm with a slight pressure and is held in place for a second or two.

Forty-eight to 72 hours later the test will be read. There may be a slight reaction in some cases. If the test is positive it does not mean that the student has active disease. However, a more sensitive test must then be given. If this is also positive, it indicates that at some time, the student has been exposed to active TB and enough tuberculosis germs have entered the body to cause a skin reaction. A chest X-ray should be taken to determine whether or not there is any damage to the lungs. Chest X-rays of positive reaction and their family members will be arranged by the school nurses and Board of Health. X-rays will be taken at the Lawrence T. B. Dispensary.

Carbohydrate

When 19th century chemists mastered the technique of analyzing certain organic compounds they found that many of them, such as starches and sugars, contained carbon—plus hydrogen and oxygen in the proportions necessary to form water. Gradually the term "carbohydrate" came to be applied to such compounds—coined from the Latin carbo for "coal" and the Greek hudos for "water."

New Deadline For Warrant

Town Clerk Irving Piper received approval from the Board of Selectmen Monday for scheduling of the closing date of the March Town Meeting. The board originally set Feb. 1 for the closing, but Piper pointed out that this left too little time for his office to put the warrant in proper form in advance of the deadline for legal advertisement of the articles to be considered. Candidates must have nomination papers to the Board of Selectmen for certification by 5 p.m. on Jan. 30 and nomination papers filed with the Town Clerk no later than 5 p.m. Feb. 6. The town election is scheduled for March 6 and Town Meeting for March 11. Voters may register prior to the election on any one of the days and in any of the precincts below:

Monday, Jan. 30, Precinct 1, Town House, 7-9 p.m.; Wednesday, Feb. 1, Precinct 3, Sacred Heart School, Balmoral St., 7-9 p.m.; Friday, Feb. 3, Precinct 4, G. Hall, West Parish, 7-9 p.m.; Wednesday, Feb. 8, Precinct 5, Community Building, Ballards, 7-9 p.m.; Friday, Feb. 10, Precinct 6, Peabody House, Phillips St., 7-9 p.m.; Tuesday, Feb. 14, Precinct 2, Town House, No. 10 p.m.

Four Indicate Interest In Board Race

Two incumbents are among four potential candidates who are circulating nomination papers for the two seats that will open on the Board of Selectmen this year.

Both Philip K. Allen, who has been on the board since 1946, and the manager plan in 1946 Robert A. Waters have indicated that they will seek re-election. Papers have also been taken by Ernest N. Hall, 43 Chestnut St., and Atty. Marco S. Pettorini, William St.

The only other resident who is circulating nomination papers is clerk's office thus far is Williams, who apparently intends to try for re-election a year later.

No one has thus far expressed an interest in the two School Committee seats that may be contested. The terms of both Robert A. Waters and William A. Doher, who expire this year, but neither has indicated whether he will seek another term.

The board originally set Feb. 10 for the closing, but Piper pointed out that this left too little time for his office to put the warrant in proper form in advance of the deadline for legal advertisement of the articles to be considered. Candidates must have nomination papers to the Board of Registrars for certification by 5 p.m. Jan. 30 and nomination papers must be filed with the Town Clerk no later than 5 p.m. Feb. 6. The town election is scheduled for March 6 and Town Meeting, for March 11.

Voters may register prior to the election on any one of the dates and in any of the precincts listed below:

Monday, Jan. 30, Precinct 1, Town House, 7-9 p.m.; Wednesday, Feb. 1, Precinct 3, Sacred Heart School, Balmoral St., 7-9 p.m.; Friday, Feb. 3, Precinct 4, Grange Hall, West Parish, 7-9 p.m.; Wednesday, Feb. 8, Precinct 5, Community Building, Ballardvale, 7-9 p.m.; Friday, Feb. 10, Precinct 6, Peabody House, Phillips Street, 7-9 p.m.; Tuesday, Feb. 14, Precinct 2, Town House, Noon to 10 p.m.

Four Indicate Interest In Board Race

Two incumbents are among the four potential candidates who are circulating nomination papers for the two seats that will open up on the Board of Selectmen this year.

Both Philip K. Allen, who has been on the board since adoption of the manager plan in 1948, and Robert A. Watters have indicated that they will seek re-election. Papers have also been taken by Ernest N. Hall, 43 Chestnut St., and Atty. Marco S. Pettoruto, 23 William St.

The only other resident to ask for nomination papers at the clerk's office thus far is Arthur Williams, who apparently intends to try for re-election as moderator.

No one has thus far expressed an interest in the two School Committee seats that may be contested. The terms of both Robert A. Sherman and William A. Doherty will expire this year, but neither has indicated whether he will seek another term.

Bank Reports New Highs

Describing 1966 as "a year of achievement" for Andover Savings Bank, President Robert M. Henderson, announced new highs in every area of the bank's activities including deposits, mortgage and personal loans, income, surplus and dividends paid to depositors.

In his report to the trustees and corporators attending the annual meeting Monday at the bank's main office, Henderson stated that despite a general era of "tight money", deposits had shown a gratifying increase of $2,577,000 or 6.83% for the year bringing total deposits to an all-time high of $40,327,000.

Turning to the dividend picture, Henderson attributed the change to quarterly payments and an increase in rates on both regular and special notice accounts as being responsible for the largest annual dividend ever distributed to depositors amounting to $1,657,194 - a gain of $221,458 over the previous year.

Reviewing the mortgage situation, Henderson reported that investment in real estate loans, primarily restricted to residential properties in Greater Lawrence, had shown a net increase of $1,655,000 for the year with the total mortgage portfolio at a new peak of $34,168,000.

At the business meeting, the following were elected new corporators: Kenneth Pollard, funeral director, Methuen and Dr. Milton Howard, pathologist, Bon Secours Hospital, Methuen.

Named a new trustee was Charles G. Hatch, 3 Apple Tree Ln., Andover, Phillip S. Clements of 39 Sunset Rock Rd. was elected a new member of the board of investment.

Local Group Would Bring 10 Underprivileged Here

A committee of interested citizens proposed at an open meeting Monday that Andover bring 10 underprivileged high school students, probably all Negroes, into the community for exposure to the sort of school system that they could not enjoy in the slum areas of major U. S. cities.

Robert H. Klie, speaking for the committee described a national program known as A Better Chance. It takes young people who have the native ability to become well educated and puts them in an environment conducive to educational growth. Those selected are helped to continue with advanced education.

The Andover group attracted an audience of some 100 people to hear an explanation of its proposal to enroll ten such students at Andover High School annually.

Klie reported that the annual operating budget for housing and an educational program for the ten would run about $33,000. The bulk of the financing would come from government grants and private contributions, but Andover would incur some public expense absorbing the students into the school system, tuition fee.

Among the next steps to be taken is the scheduling of a meeting with the School Committee.

A Burdensome Backlog

It is depressing to face 1967 with the knowledge that Andover must continue to debate many of the same issues that it was determined to resolve in 1966.

Dwelling on this thought tends to obscure the real progress that was made in the year just ended. And there was some.

Facing into a real and growing emergency, Andover built a dam across Fish Brook to add a potential 100 million gallons of water to the municipal system daily and postpone the day when this fast growing community must resort to pumping and purifying river water in order to meet the demands of the population. It is unfortunate that this project was not sold to the town years ago, when it first became clear that Andover's water needs would eventually outstrip the supply. It is unfortunate that it took a drought to dramatize the situation and create PUBLIC demand for official action. But nevertheless, the dam is built and can be regarded as an accomplishment for 1966.

Within the same span of time the town completed a $340,000 expansion of its library facilities, along with construction of a much needed Town Garage and a fire station to serve the sprawling West end community.

And, in spite of some backing and filling, the town finally authorized purchase of sites for elementary schools in both Southeast and West Andover.

It swallowed the bitter news that it must pay an additional $700,000 for the privilege of delaying and re-designing a senior high school project that was initiated in 1964. It made the decision to proceed, and ground was broken — an achievement for 1966.

The town government successfully managed a number of lesser municipal decisions on its own in the year ended, and there have been administrative and operational advances that rank as credits for '66. But public decisions about capital expenditures dominate any recounting of the year's history.

There will be little change in the complexion of the news for 1967. Andover will become increasingly computerized this year as it works to adapt its functions to the needs of an ever more demanding populace; it will swing into the complexities that are certain to accompany the introduction of collective bargaining into the municipal operation; and it will be perpetually confronted with the need to take measure of Andover's problems in terms of their relationship to those of neighboring communities and those of the Commonwealth.

Much of what occupies the public scene this year will continue, however, to relate to matters involving capital expenditures. This is inevitable in a community that refused for so long to accept the reality of changing times.

The town is still without solid plans for two long overdue public safety facilities — a central fire station and a police department headquarters. It is still without a site and plans for a new municipal office building. It is still bumbling along without having adopted any comprehensive plan for downtown development. And it is still engaged in a controversy with Lawrence, North Andover and Methuen over what approach should be taken to eliminating pollution of the major waterway that must ultimately serve as a life line for the many communities clustered along the Merrimack.

These are not new problems. Boards have come and gone, and they remain. Why? Because they are politically controversial. Because they involve questions about which a great many people are sensitive, and because elected officials sway with sentiment and react to pressure.

Take a look at the problems that were solved in 1966. None was of major political concern. There was no prolonged debate over the precise positioning and design of either the West Andover fire station or the Town Garage, though there was initial behind the scenes disagreement over the site for the sub-station. The library trustees and the manager proceeded with the construction of the addition to Memorial Hall unobtrusively and without political involvement. And though there were political currents beneath the surface of the debate over the Bancroft school site, the overpowering necessity for a decision forced the issue.

But when you start talking about a town hall, downtown renewal and development, regional solutions to mass problems and the like, the ground rules change. The public debate is never fully revealing.

Andover must solve its old problems, if it is to keep abreast of the current ones and prepare for those yet to come. It must achieve some measure of political maturity. The events of 1966 dramatize this fact at a time when responsible citizens should be out beating the bushes for stalwart candidates to compete for key policy making jobs in the election this spring.

Strong board leadership is the answer for a town that is weary of beginning each new year with a burdensome backlog of unresolved problems.

Let's find the right people. Courageous officials who will see that Andover goes ahead year by year instead of delaying and delaying important decisions.

Nature

Keeps Trees In Balance

The lavishness through which nature maintains a one-for-one ratio astounds even those familiar with the process.

Take, for instance, the sugar maples in New England. Every year each mature sugar maple tree sheds thousands of seeds. It continues seeding the earth throughout its life span which may be 300 to 350 years. From these millions of seeds, nature expects to produce but one mature sugar maple — one tree which eventually will replace the parent tree!

This sounds implausible until one considers what the alternative implies. Should two sugar maples mature from these millions of seeds, the population of sugar maples would double. And this doubling of population could be possible only at the expense of other vegetation. For every acre of the earth — unless disturbed by an adverse condition — supports every plant, every leaf and every blade of grass that can grow within climate and soil limitations. To double its population, a sugar maple grove would have to eradicate every plant in the area that used the energy and space that sugar maples require.

The basic theme that radical expansion of any species in nature can be accomplished only at the expense of other species applies to the whole spectrum of wildlife and plants. The mechanics of displacement, however, vary widely. Its study constitutes a special field known as population dynamics, an area in which Dr. William H. Drury Jr., research director for the Massachusetts Audubon Society, is an acknowledged expert.

The shower of a million seeds resulting in an end product of a single mature plant sounds wasteful. But nature has a use for every sugar maple seed, even though its destiny falls short of crowning a forest.

A mathematical botanist once calculated that 4000 seedling trees spring up each year beneath a sugar maple. While this accounts for only a fraction of the seeds scattered, it means that in a lifetime a 350-year-old sugar maple has produced at least 1,400,000 tiny trees. Unless a catastrophe strikes the surrounding area, only one of these trees will prosper to become a patriarch.

What happened to the others? They become the food on which wildlife subsists. Seeds were eaten by ruffed grouse, purple finches, evening grosbeaks and other birds. Flying gray and red squirrels, rabbits, chipmunks and meadow mice gather maple seed harvests.

Some 35 out of the original 1,400,000 sugar maple sprouts live to be 50 years old but die as slender, gangly saplings or are shaded out by the parent tree. Two live to be 150 years old, but one finally overcomes the other and lingers for the heritage that follows the death of the parent tree. All these, in dying, return to the soil in concentrated form the fertility that the surviving tree requires.

As Others See It

The Berkshire Courier, Dec. 29:

"A DUBIOUS PROPOSAL"

"We note that state Sen. George D. Hammond of Westfield has filed a bill that would increase the real estate tax exemption for church parsonages from $15,000 to $25,000. We hope it is defeated."

"One of the major problems faced by towns and cities today is the ever-increasing amount of tax-exempt property with which they are saddled. Schools, hospitals, churches, charitable organizations — they all hop a free ride on the tax rolls at the expense of the businessman and the homeowner. Some of these exemptions, to be sure, can perhaps be justified, but many are thinly veiled tax dodges.

"If one stops to think about it, there is little real reason why most of these institutions should be tax-exempt — especially the churches. If a religious congregation can afford to construct an imposing edifice in which to worship, it can well afford to pay the taxes on it. And it can certainly afford to pay the taxes on the residence of its clergymen."

"What is called for in Massachusetts is a sharp DECREASE in the amount of tax-exempt property — not another INCREASE. And that decrease might well start with church parsonages. Wasn't it Christ himself who said 'Render to Caesar the things that are Caesar's, and to God the things that are God's'?"

Court Settles Zoning Dispute

The State Supreme Court has settled a long-term zoning dispute by ruling that Andover was not out of order in redefining the zoning boundaries on Florence Street to resolve a case brought by residents against Arthur A. Collins.

The decision will permit completion of a brick office building that has been standing, partially constructed, since the litigation began.

Nearly 70,000 persons are employed in the electronics industry in Massachusetts.

What Our Readers Say

To the Editor of the TOWNSMAN:

The phrase "In the best interests of the Town" has been banded about quite a bit of late in a variety of tongues. The mere utterance of the phrase is enough to strike deadly fear into the hearts of would-be dissenters. For whatever purpose it has been applied, the intent has always been the same — the silencing of the opposition.

However, this "dissenter" finds that he cannot keep silence about things that disturb him, and occasionally feels compelled to ask questions which might be considered pertinent or impertinent, depending upon the viewpoint of the particular reader!

1. In view of recent statements made about "crash projects", fiscal planning and physical growth, was it sound financial planning to implement the one dollar reduction in last year's tax rate?

2. How much more money would the Town now have if we had retained the $34 tax rate, or even raised it a dollar?

3. Will the revaluation survey result in a tax base that renders even a retained $33 tax rate in 1967 utterly meaningless?

4. Does the 1966 tax cut seem compatible with contemplated capital expenditure proposals?

5. Was the 1966 tax cut really and truly made "in the best interests of the Town?"

Oh, gosh, now I've said the magic words! Perhaps they might invoke some honest answers.

Art Experts Will Advise Art Educators

Bartlett H. Hayes Jr., director of Addison Gallery of American Art, Phillips Academy, is one of 16 art and art education experts from across the nation who will meet with Ohio art teachers in Columbus this week to discuss art education in the schools.

Ohio State University's Schools of Education and Art with a $22,653 federal grant, are sponsoring the unique conference.

Profs. Jeanne Orr of University School and Glenn N. Patton of the School of Art organized the conference with a view toward the national concern over the inadequacy of art instruction in American elementary and secondary schools.

The principal lacks are that teachers do not have enough experience in art appreciation and art criticism, now deemed vital to the proper training of art teachers, and adequate resource materials.

Memorial Hall Library
Plato Works To Be Studied

Leaders of the Junior Great Books discussion groups meeting in Andover public schools, will collect at 8 p.m. Jan. 19 at Memorial Hall Library for their own discussion of Plato's APOLOGY AND CRITO.

Leading the third such discussion in the first set of Great Books program will be Mrs. Richard Buck and Mrs. E. W. McLean. Persons interested in attending the public meeting may secure copies of the discussion material at Memorial Hall in advance of the 19th.

The next meeting of the leadership group will occur in February and the date will be announced, according to Mrs. Donald Sagaser. She explained that leaders want to "keep a hand in" discussion techniques and that therefore the leadership function will revolve among the members who have all taken the training course given by the Great Books Foundation. She emphasized that the public is welcome to attend. Interested guests should plan to read the selections. Future meetings will probably take place monthly.

Books Discussion

Tuesday, Jan. 17 is the date for discussion of Moliere's TARTUFFE and THE MISANTHROPE by members of the Memorial Hall Great Books discussion group. Under the continued leadership of Robert Rockwell and Miss Helen Stearns, this group in its 16th year is working on the fourth set of readings from the great books of the Western world. New members are welcome to start at any meeting. All that is required is reading the selected material before the meetings which are held at the library on alternate Tuesday evenings at 7:30. Feel free to ask at the library desk for a copy of the forthcoming discussion material, or for information about Great Books and the foundation which sponsors the programs.

Pre-School Programs

Various activities centered on books and the wonderful writing for children are announced for the month of January. On the 12th at 10 a.m., the Redbirds group gathers at Ballardvale branch.

Also at 10 a.m. on Tuesday, Jan. 17, the Chipmunks group of boys and girls of pre-school age will have their next program in the children's room.

The Bluebirds of Ballardvale will meet at the branch on Jan. 19 at 10 a.m.

Story Topics

At 3:30 p.m. Jan. 12, school age children are invited to the children's room at the main library for a program of stories on the theme, "Through the magic web."

Miss Elizabeth Russell, supervisor of work with children, will be the narrator of "The City of Winter Sleep" and "The Last Half Hour" from Henry Beston's BOOK OF FAIRY TALES.

Parking Provided

To facilitate the return of books at Memorial Hall Library, two curb-side parking places have been marked in yellow on Essex Street in front of the new all-weather book return slot which is built into the side of the new wing. This return slot is spacious enough to handle the large volume of books patrons wish to return during hours when the library is closed. So if you find the library is not open, look for the yellow curb and the return slot on Essex Street, and avoid library fines charged for late books.

Legalities Stymie Land Negotiations

The Selectmen met Wednesday, after TOWNSMAN Presstime, to work out a solution to one of two problems which developed last week to delay purchase of the old Tyer Rubber warehouse site as a location for a new central police and fire station.

Members talked Monday of suggesting that Blake Bros. Co., the realty firm that holds the Friendly Ice Cream properties, trade a 20 foot easement on the remaining Tyer land for additional parking area at the rear of their restaurant lot. If Friendly will work out such a trade with Contractor C. Lincoln Giles, or agree to drop the easement, the town can proceed with plans to acquire the some two acres of land in the parcel.

The board learned last week, however, of a further complication. Bond counselors Storey, Thorn-dike, Palmer & Dodge of Boston have told Boston's New England Merchants National Bank that it cannot handle bonds for the purchase.

The bondsmen have questioned the legality of a special Town Meeting vote which last October authorized purchase of the Tyer property from Giles. The firm says, in effect, that the floor amendment to the Warrant article calling for the Tyer acquisition so differed from the advertised Warrant that it does not feel voters were adequately forewarned. In other words, some voters may have stayed away who would have attended the special session had they realized precisely what would be voted.

The article in the Selectmen's Warrant called for transfer of $500,000 already appropriated for construction of a fire station on Stevens Street to permit construction of the station on the former Tyer property instead, and it further asked authorization to acquire Giles' land instead of the Stevens Street site.

The article was rewritten on the floor of Town Meeting, however, and amended to call for appropriation of $250,000 for acquisition of the Main Street property for municipal use. It did not specifically mention a fire station and by rescinding the vote on the earlier Stevens Street article, it eliminated the funds available for construction of the planned fire station. Town Meeting must be reapproached for such an appropriation.

Following word of bond counsel's opinion, the Selectmen announced last week that the matter of the Tyer purchase will also have to be reconsidered by voters.

Contractor Giles met with the board Monday and pointed out that his reciprocal agreement with Friendly would permit the town to use 20 feet of land on the Friendly side of the property line in question as well as give Friendly access to 20 feet of the land on the North side of the area the town proposes to buy. The board did not, however, seem disposed to enter into a sales agreement so long as the deed restriction exists.

Giles told the board he would like some assurance that the town still intends to buy his property because the uncertainty of the situation makes it impossible for him to get financing for private development of the land at this time. Members pointed out that they cannot guarantee the action of a Town Meeting and Selectman Robert A. Watters added that if Giles were to arrange for private development he, for one, would not vote to take property by eminent domain. He said he would regard private development of the area as preferable, both for Giles and the town.

Still to be cured, also, is a minor title fault which gives some of the previous owners a legal, if not intended, claim on the property. Town Counsel Frederic S. O'Brien said this week that this is a technical difficulty that should be relatively simple to correct.

$6 Tax

If adopted in toto, the bill presented to town officials last week by Manager Richard E. could result in the levying of a $6 increase in the property tax for 1967.

The manager told municipal leaders at a "State of Town" presentation Monday that the estimate of a $6 tax hike is the nearest he can come to stating the effect of requested budget increases in excess of $1 million. A more precise estimate cannot be made until the town has a better idea of what yield it can expect from sales tax revenue from the tax equalization study now in its final stages, he said.

News Capsules

Massachusetts Congressmen F. Bradford Morse has introduced legislation to provide a tax for the costs of higher education. The Congressman pointed out that the Floor of the House that the cost of tuition and for public colleges and universities rose from 90 to 112 percent between 1955 and 1965, the income for families with three of the household aged 35 to 54 by only 53 percent. He noted that the American Council on Education expects costs to rise another 50 percent in the next decade. Morse's bill would allow a 30 percent credit against the tax.
